About the Artist:

Kenya Esteva de Ruiz began studying classical guitar and violin from an early age, in Venezuela and eventually became a student of renowned Chilean guitarists Arturo Gonzalez Quintana, in fact his son Roberto Gonzalez Alvarado was her first teacher! Kenya has a rich and diverse performing and teaching career beginning in Venezuela with El Sistema. She has taught in Buffalo, NY where she was a String and Early Childhood Educator as well as a Classical Guitar Instructor; in Texas, she served as an Orchestra and Mariachi Director. Locally, Kenya is active as a performer in Boston Civic Symphony Orchestra, plays a part of various Music Ministries throughout Greater Boston and of course, as part of our own Creative Arts Ensemble. In addition to performing, she also offers classes in early childhood music and lessons in violin, cello and guitar at Creative Arts.
